

Qellithar Research Instructions

You are a group of researchers specializing in alien education. The year is 2879, and humanity has just made first contact with an alien species from another galaxy.

Although many teams of scientists have worked with the aliens (the Qellithar) to find a method of communication, no one has been able to explain human emotions. So, the Qellithar are finding it difficult to understand humans and communicate effectively with them.

It is your job to find a way to teach the Qellithar about human emotions.

You have the following supplies available to you:

- Magazines
- Lined and unlined paper
- Markers
- Scissors

If you need any additional supplies to meet your goal, let your instructor know.

Before you begin, discuss the following questions with your research team to help come up with a plan:

- What are human emotions?
- Why might it be important to read emotions from someone's face while talking to them?
- How do you like to learn about new things? For example, by reading books, looking at pictures or flashcards, doing practice problems, acting out stories, etc.
- How might you teach the Qellithar to recognize human emotions?
